Please indicate whether you identify yourself as a person with disability or elaborate on your lived experience related to persons with disabilities.

I was born with the connective tissue disorder Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome and I suffer from chronic pain as a result of this. I am also a cancer survivor. I am a (power) wheelchair-user and have a personal assistant to help me achieve independent living.

Relevant expertise on the rights of persons with disabilities

My expertise comes from having a disability, having a big national and international network among persons with disability and by working and volunteering with disability organizations for many decades.

I recognize the UN CRPD convention as one of the most significant tools (together with the Sustainable Development Goals) at our disposal.

I have a particular interest in empowering persons with disabilities (especially women) to live active lives, including focus on reproductive rights and health services, rehabilitation, education, access to employment, universal design, personal mobility, living independently, participation in public life, and raising awareness about the fact that persons with disabilities are important contributors to society.

List of most recent publications in the field of rights of persons with disabilities:

- Book (translated title: Let us talk about pain), on the need for a public debate and dialogue on chronic pain and the rights of those living with pain (2020)
- Article (translated title: The Blind Spot of the World) (2018)
- Blog: Disability inclusive education (2018)
